Passenger Focus is the independent Great Britain-wide rail consumer organisation who will establish strong working relationships with the Department for Transport, Welsh Assembly and the Scottish Executive. They were formed on the 24 July 2005 following the Railways Act 2005, following the abolition of the regional Rail Passengers Committees and the former Rail Passengers Council.

They monitor the policies and performance of train and station operators and have the legal right to make recommendations for changes. Their special tasks include following up complaints and assessing the services offered
